DEPARTMENT: NUTRITION AND DIETETICS

Leadership and Excellence have become paramount important in the era of disruptive transformation. Academia is no exception to this. It has become even more important as the role of academic institutions has been redefined and the expectations from faculty members have completely changed. Faculty members are now expected to lead creative and innovative teams in higher education. This FDP at AUC is a small but very firm step towards achieving this goal. We at AUC have enough infrastructural and leadership support to create an environment conducive to guide and support disruptive transformation in times of the circular economy. Our college relies on the in-house expertise of a diverse group of creative and innovative higher education leaders to inspire students and other stakeholders to reflect, experiment, and evolve their professional practice.
