The M.Sc. I-year students in this programme were chosen explicitly since they deal with a taxonomy covering many plant species. Students learn about the different bioactive components present in the different plant extracts. The students from all academic streams who attended the 8-day course on phytochemicals found it to be highly engaging, educational and motivating. This course helps the learners learn about the different secondary metabolites and the bioactive components in the different plant parts. The course aims to achieve the following objectives.

- The purpose of this course is to make the students understand the importance of phytochemical (plant-based chemicals)
- To emphasize the importance and structure of phytochemicals
- To understand the uses of phytochemical nutrients in maintaining good health

In addition to safeguarding the environment and public health, organic farming has several advantages over conventional farming. These include enhancing soil fertility, improving water quality, preventing soil erosion, creating rural jobs, etc.

PRINCIPAL

- Maintains soil fertility and ecological balance
- Environment friendly
- Promotes sustainable development
- Promotes more usage of natural pesticides

Topics covered

- Introduction
- Principles of organic farming
- Types of organic farming
- Organic plant nutrient management
- Vermicomposting
- Organic plant protection

Learning outcomes

- Source of employment
- Organic farming can sequester carbon in the soil, which helps reduce the greenhouse effect and global warming.
- Organic farming uses less non-renewable energy by using fewer agrochemicals.
